HOLIDAY SALES OFFER UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY

BY ROGER HANCE, PRESIDENT, AND DAVID WALKER SOUTHLAND REGIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®

The world of residential real estate has changed so much over the last two decades that prospective home buyers or sellers may be missing an opportunity by taking the holidays off.

Realtor® Roger Hance 2014 SRAR President

Long regarded as inviolable and the slowest time of year for residential real estate, there now are plenty of reasons to consider being active year round, especially by listing a property or buying a home during the closing months of the year.

· The Rise of

International Buyers

While still a relatively small segment of the market, the number of home buyers from foreign nations increased dramatically as the housing market recovered from recession.

Foreign buyers often do not regard the holidays as a time to shut down house hunting activities. This is especially true for sellers of high-end homes, where buyers from China, Canada, Great Britain and India are particularly active, plopping down all-cash payments on expensive properties that, from a global perspective, are a bargain, offering a lot for the money.

• Increased American Homeowner Mobility

In the decades before the Internet and high technology, Americans typically landed a job and bought a home fully expecting to stay put for seven years or longer.

That is less true today. Occupations change overnight. Companies relocate. Opportunities flourish in new regions. Workers follow.

For better or for worse, the modern American lifestyle calls for mobility.

It doesn't matter if it's July or December: when a company asks an employee to move, a home purchase frequently is the first thing to happen, especially if the company offers a relocation package that includes housing reimbursement.

• The Advantage of Lighter Competition During the Holidays

If many home sellers take the holidays off, then those who do list homes for sale wind up with an advantage, especially if the pool of prospective advantage, especially if the pool of prospective buyers expands. With fewer listings available, holiday sellers can stick to their list price, perhaps offering fewer concessions.

That may sound like a disincentive for buyers, yet even with the growth in international buyers and other prospective buyers who remain busy during the holidays, the numbers of buyers remains relatively small, thus sometimes neutralizing the seller advantage.

• Holiday Home Shoppers Are Motivated

It stands to reason that if a home seller or buyer decides to take a holiday break, they most likely are less motivated.

But if a person needs a home or must sell, the holidays will not be an impediment.

It's not as if a buyer can wait until Spring to find a place to live. Sure, they can rent short term, but rentals are expensive and in short supply, especially in Southern California. Home buyers who remain active in November and December typically are extremely motivated. They're willing to alter holiday schedules and brave inclement weather to get into a home. Those are the kinds of buyers home sellers dream about. They need to move right away and might be willing to pay a bit more to get into a home quickly.

• Internet Searches Surge During the Holidays

Just because prospective fewer buyers visit open houses during the holiday does not mean all activity ends.

Indeed, some home buyers devote the added free time holidays may offer to expanded online house hunting. While information on line may be incomplete, dated, or inaccurate, Internet searches can narrow the choices, whittling them down to a select few. Plus, the Internet is immune to inclement weather, allowing buyers the opportunity to search from the warmth and comfort of their current residence.

These and a raft of other reasons are why traffic on many real estate websites increases as holiday decorations appear and the New Year approaches. It's a new age of real estate.

Holidays Made Brighter Thanks to Members, SRAR Charitable Foundation

Thursday, December 4, 2014, Van Nuvs. CA - SRAR hosted 80 less fortunate children for its annual Toy Drive & Kids Holiday Party.

Each year, SRAR's president chooses an elementary school in an impoverished area to host up to 80 children for a holiday celebration like none other. This year's school was Alta California Elementary School in Panorama City.

The school chose 80 boys and girls based on their economic situation. Once the list was sent to SRAR, members and staff headed out to shop for the children based on their age and gender. Each child received three gifts, one of which was a family game.

On the big day, the kids were bussed in from the school and greeted by eager volunteer members and staff who led the children into the auditorium. Once inside, excitement overwhelmed the room as the children took in festive decorations, Happy Meals® from McDonald's® and holiday films showing on the big screen.

After eating, the children were even more surprised as they were carefully escorted outside to the main parking lot to witness the arrival of Santa Claus on a fire truck, complete with sirens and lights.

Santa greeted the ecstatic children with a "Ho-ho-ho" and then led them back into the auditorium. There, Santa called each child up, individually, to meet him and receive a bagful of wrapped gifts just for them.

The excitement and joy on each child's face was indescribable.

The children from Alta Elementary School were a total delight.

Director, Member & Community Relations - SRAR

This amazingly heartwarming event was made possible by the SRAR Charitable Foundation, and from individual member contributions. On behalf of the SRAR staff, committee members and volunteers, and Alta Elementary School, we sincerely thank you for making the holidays brighter for these well-deserving children in need.

We would also like to thank Santa Claus, as well as the Los Angeles Fire Department for providing the fire truck.

In addition to the Kids Holiday Party,

SRAR is also collecting new, unwrapped toys to donate to the LA Fire Department's Spark of Love program. For more information on the toy drive, contact Jason Arancibia at SRAR at 818-947-2298.

The SRAR Charitable Foundation is a 501c3 nonprofit organization, separate from the Association. It was founded in 1990 and is governed by its own board of directors. The Foundation is dedicated to improving the social and economic well-being of our communities.

ADDED FORECLOSURE PROTECTION MULLED

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is seeking public comment on additional measures intended to ensure that home owners and struggling borrowers are treated fairly by mortgage servicers.

The proposed regulations would require servicers to provide certain borrowers with foreclosure protections more than once over the life of the loan, to put in place additional servicing transfer protections, and to take steps to protect borrowers from a wrongful foreclosure sale.

The proposals would also help ensure that surviving family members and others who inherit or receive property have the same protections under the CFPB's mortgage servicing rules as the original borrower.

"The Consumer Bureau is committed to ensuring that homeowners and struggling borrowers are treated fairly by mortgage servicers and that no one is wrongly foreclosed upon," said CFPB Director Richard Cordray. "This proposal would give greater protections to mortgage borrowers."

Mortgage servicers are responsible for collecting payments from the mortgage borrower and forwarding those payments to the owner of the loan. They typically handle customer service, collections, loan modifications, and foreclosures.

To address shoddy mortgage servicing practices, the CFPB put in place rules designed to eliminate surprises and runarounds for homeowners. The rules, which went into effect on Jan. 10, require servicers to maintain accurate records, give troubled borrowers direct and ongoing access to servicing personnel, promptly credit payments, and correct errors on request. The rules also include strong protections for struggling homeowners, including those facing foreclosure.

Since the Bureau's mortgage servicing rules took effect, the CFPB has continued to engage in outreach with consumer advocacy groups, industry representatives, and other stakeholders. This proposal reflects its ongoing effort to ensure the rules are working as intended and to smooth the path for companies to better protect consumers and comply with the CFPB's rules.

Among other things, the recent proposal would:

- Expand consumer protections to surviving family members and other homeowners.
- Require servicers to promptly notify borrowers when loss mitigation applications are complete.
- Protect struggling borrowers during servicing transfers.
- Clarify servicers' obligations to avoid dual-tracking and prevent wrongful foreclosures.
- Clarify when a borrower becomes delinquent.
- · Provide more information to borrowers in bankruptcy.

A copy of the proposed rule, which includes information on how to submit comments, is available at: http://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/201411_cfpb_proposedrule mortgage-servicing.pdf

WE ARE HERE FOR YOU AND ARE CONFIDENT GREAT THINGS LIE AHEAD FOR THE REAL ESTATE INDUSTRY. ALL THE BEST- STEVE, KATHY, JEFF AND OLGA

RPA Q&A'S BY KATHY MEHRINGER, 2014 RISK MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE, COLDWELL BANKER

Q. Now that the Wood Pest Addendum ("WPA") is being retired, how exactly will Buyers be able to request that a Seller correct either section one or section two repairs?

A. When the Study Group charged with making revisions to the Residential Purchase Agreement ("RPA") recommended the retirement of the WPA, we knew that an alternate method of negotiating wood pest corrective work would be a necessity. For that reason the Request For Repairs ("RR") was revised to include a provision whereby the Buyer may request corrective measures be taken for either section one or two recommendations.

Whether or not the Seller agrees is another matter. The Seller's may communicate their response using the newly created Seller's Reply and Response to Buyer's Request For Repairs ("RRRR"). The good news is, these negotiations will now occur only after both Parties have received and reviewed a Wood Pest Inspection.

Best Practice: Keep in mind the terms of the RPA are negotiable between the Parties, that means the Buyer and Seller! Brokers are not Parties to the Agreement therefore all decisions are best left to the Parties once they have been presented with the information needed to make an informed decision.

Q. Based on the two new Counter Offers: Seller Counter Offer (SCO) and Buyer Counter Offer (BCO); both of which were released on November 24, 2014 in conjunction with the revised Residential Purchase Agreement: When a Buyer elects to issue a counter offer to Seller Counter Offer No. 1, should the Buyer's Counter Offer be labeled No. 1 or No. 2?

A. If the Buyer elects to counter Seller Counter Offer No. 1, it would be countered: "Subject to Buyer's Counter Offer No. 1." If the counter offer process continues the numerical labeling would continue as above!

Q. When the Buyer is able to remove contingencies but has not yet been served with a Notice to Buyer to Perform (NBP) by the listing agent do you recommend that the Contingency Removal is sent right away or is it better to wait until a Notice to Perform is Delivered by the listing agent?

A. This is where counseling and open discussion regarding the transactional process plays such an important role in our relationships with clients.

Buyers should understand the entire transaction process at the onset; if the Buyer elects not to remove contingencies on the date agreed upon in the Residential Purchase Agreement the Seller may issue a Notice to Buyer to Perform and may then issue a Cancellation of Contract if the Buyer fails to take the required action(s) within the requisite time period (two days unless otherwise agreed).

It is important to remember that the Seller is under no obligation to cancel but by issuing the NBP the right to do so is preserved.

Now to your question: Is it better for the Buyer to be proactive and remove contingencies once they have been satisfied or is better to wait?

It depends! A Buyer may wish to demonstrate good faith and initiate contingency removals promptly. On the other hand a Buyer may be hesitant to remove a particular contingency in which case they may want to wait for a Notice to Buyer to Perform.

Remember, in the event Buyer and Seller are negotiating repairs the Seller may link credits, repairs or price concessions to immediate removal of contingencies.

To sum it up, after discussing the risk reward analysis with their REALTOR(R) the Buyer is the one who decides what strategy to employ when it comes to removing contingencies.

Q. If an Offer is written PRIOR to November 24, 2014 and is still "alive" with Counter Offers after that date is it okay to just keep it going or do we need to start the entire process over on the revised Residential Purchase Agreement?

A. There is no reason to unravel the negotiations in the circumstance that you outlined; unless the Parties want to use the revised Residential Purchase Agreement (RPA). Because the RPA does not contain any statutorily prescribed changes the previous version remains valid and enforceable. Of course should the negotiations breakdown I would urge you to prepare any subsequent Offer on the revised RPA dated November 24, 2014.

3% Down Payments May Be Game Changer

Source: REALTOR MAGAZINE ONLINE | TUESDAY, DECEMBER 09, 2014

Mortgage giants Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac announced Monday that first-time home buyers can now qualify for loans with down payments as low as 3 percent. That will expand credit for qualified home shoppers who may have been sidelined the last few years because of higher down-payment requirements, housing analysts say.

Freddie Mac launched Home Possible Advantage, a conventional mortgage with a 3 percent down-payment requirement geared to low- and moderate-income borrowers. It's a conforming conventional mortgage with a maximum loan-to-value ratio of 97 percent. To qualify, first-time home buyers are required to participate in a borrower education program.

With Fannie Mae's 3 percent down-payment offering, borrowers must still meet standard eligibility requirements, including underwriting, income documentation, and risk management standards. Any buyer can take advantage of Fannie's loans as long as at least one co-borrower is a first-time buyer. The loans will require private mortgage insurance.

"Our goal is to help additional qualified borrowers gain access to mortgages," says Andrew Bon Salle, Fannie Mae executive vice president for single-family underwriting, pricing, and capital markets. "This option alone will not solve all the challenges around access to credit. Our new 97 percent LTV offering is simply one way we are working to remove barriers for credit-worthy borrowers to get a mortgage."

The National Association of REAL-TORS® applauds the move by the Federal Housing Finance Agency, which oversees Fannie and Freddie.

NAR said in a statement that the action by FHFA demonstrates its "commitment to home ownership by serving creditworthy borrowers who lack the resources for substantial down payments, plus closing costs, with a new 3 percent down-payment program that mitigates risk with strong underwriting. The new program ensures that responsible home buyers will have access to safe, affordable mortgage credit."

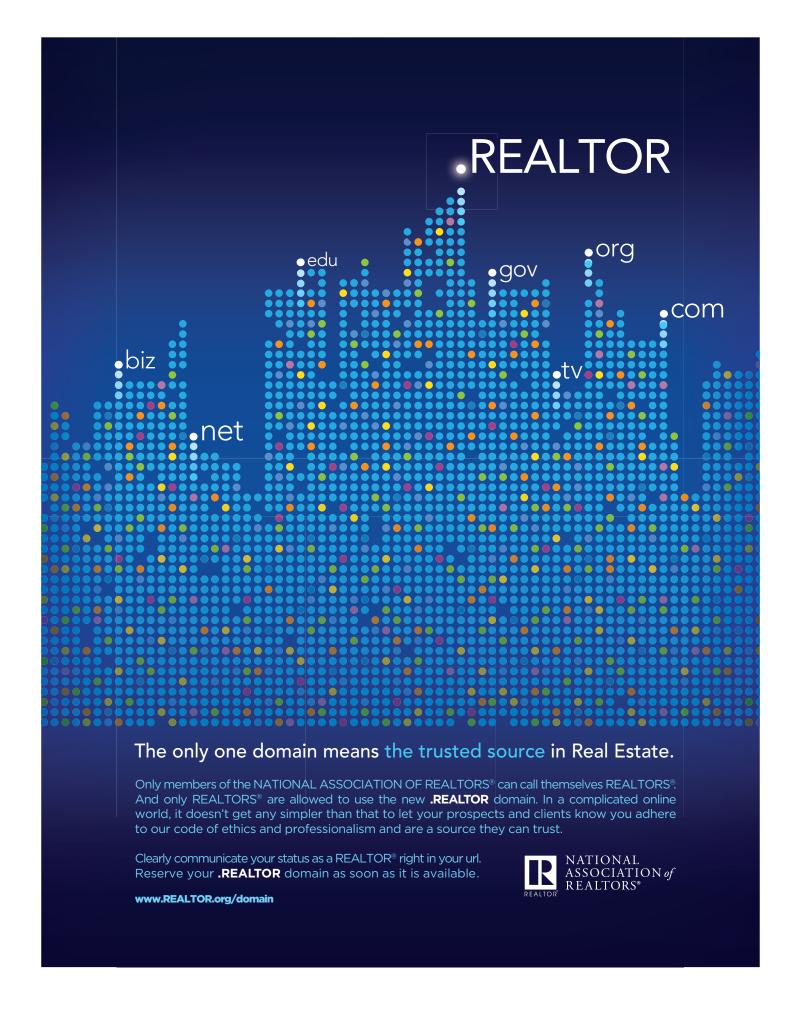

Upcoming SRAR Holiday Closures

Please note that both SRAR offices and CRISNet Technical Support will be closed on Thursday, December 25 and Friday, December 26, as well as Thursday, January 1 and Friday, January 2.

We, at SRAR, wish you all a very safe and happy holiday season and an enormously successful New Year!
